The Census Bureau is required by law to protect any personal information we collect and keep it strictly confidential. Your answers can only be used for statistics. In fact, every Census Bureau employee takes an oath to protect your personal information. Your answers cannot be used by law enforcement purposes or to determine your personal eligibility for government benefits.

By law, your census responses cannot be used against you by any government agency or court in any way. This includes not by the:
• Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI)
• Central Intelligence Agency (CIA)
• Department of Homeland Security (DHS)
• U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE).

The law requires the Census Bureau to keep your information confidential and use your responses only to produce statistics. By law, no personal information can be shared.

THE LAW IS CLEAR — NO PERSONAL INFORMATION CAN BE SHARED

Under Title 13 of the U.S. Code, the Census Bureau cannot release any identifiable information about individuals, households, or businesses, even to law enforcement agencies. All Census Bureau staff take a lifetime oath to protect your personal information, and any violation comes with a penalty of up to $250,000 and/or up to 5 years in prison.

YOUR ONLINE RESPONSES ARE SAFE FROM HACKING AND OTHER CYBERTHREATS

The Census Bureau takes strong precautions to keep online responses secure. All data submitted online are encrypted to protect personal privacy, and our cybersecurity programs meet the highest and most recent standards for protecting personal information. Learn more about the Census Bureau’s data protection and privacy program at www.census.gov/privacy.

How can I respond to the census?
The Census Bureau will offer the census form in four ways:

1. Online, using the internet or a smartphone.
2. Over the telephone, by calling the Census call center listed on the Census letter.
3. Using a paper form, or
4. By responding to a census worker at your door.
